Medical Board Revokes License of Michael G. Brown, M.D., of Houston

The Texas Medical Board has revoked the license of Michael Glyn Brown, M.D., license #G3190, of Houston.

A Probationer/Show Compliance Hearing was held on January 27 and continued February 24, during which a panel of the Board considered allegations regarding Dr. Brown's violation of an Agreed Order of December 18, 2002. The panel determined that Dr. Brown was in violation of the terms of that order and was subject to the provision that authorizes the Board's representatives to direct the Executive Director to immediately revoke Dr. Brown's license based on a positive test for any prohibited substances.

After presentation of evidence and witnesses by both the agency and Dr. Brown, the Board panel found that Dr. Brown had violated the terms of the December 18, 2002, Agreed Order. Evidence was presented that a hair specimen taken from Dr. Brown on or about October 25, 2005, tested positive for cocaine. Evidence was also presented that a second test conducted at Dr. Brown's request by a second laboratory confirmed the first test. Therefore, the Board panel directed the Executive Director to execute an order of revocation based on the mandatory revocation provisions of that order.

The order, effective today, requires that Dr. Brown immediately cease practicing as a physician in the state of Texas and that he shall not again practice in the state until authorized to do so by the Board.
